THE SILVER PROBLEM.

A private letter from Tom Fitch, dated Washington, Jan. 16th, states that the Silver Committee, of which General Warren is Chairman, had concluded to nail the free coinage flag to the mast and accept nothing else. In speaking of this subject Mr. Fitch says: "Any compromise, such as the Windom bill and making its passage imperative instead of discretionary, with the Secretary, might afford some relief, but as it would only increase the situation without adding much to the value of silver, it would fail in giving relief to the silver producers of Nevada and Nevada is the object of my solicitude at present."

"Mr. Barlow is on the Coinage Committee, but I fear that the committee was organized with a view of how 'not to do it,' and Mr. Barlow, though earnest, well-meaning and honest, has not the strength to lift the Coinage Committee out of the mire of compromise."

Mr. Fitch states that within the limits allotted him he is trying to make the best possible showing for our State, and pending the meeting of the Silver Committee, he has revised and re-written a history of Nevada for the History Hand Book, a volume of which 100,000 are to be printed in New York.

The daily records of deaths at home and abroad furnish the index being treated as a trifling epidemic. In the large cities of Europe, as well as in New York, Boston and Chicago, the death rate has increased to unusual proportions, and in Omaha the deaths directly traceable to the plague are numerous. Carelessness and exposure are fruitful sources of a disease which is dangerous when complicated with pulmonary troubles. Countless preventives are affixed, but the observance of the laws of hygiene—regular habits, moderate dieting, proper clothing and well-ventilated apartments—affords the most reliable safeguard against that and like insidious contagion.

he Free Lance remarks: One of the men most prominently before the people of Nevada at the present time is Mr. F. C. Newsoms. His opinion seems to be that the best way to get rid of the silver problem is to get rid of the silver.

BELFISH LEGISLATORS.

Altogether Too Many Sectional Representatives in Congress.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—After all, Senators and Representatives in Congress are selfish in their public acts. Every man looks jealously after his individual constituency, to the exclusion of the general welfare of the country. The great bulk of the work devolving upon the man in Congress is done by a system of log-rolling.

These observations are suggested by the refusal of the Eastern and Central States Senators to appropriate money for irrigating the arid plains of the West on the grounds that their constituents are not interested in the project. A special committee of the Senate spent several months during the past Summer taking testimony respecting the needs of the arid regions in the way of irrigation and basins for irrigating purposes. They spent thousands of dollars and visited the extreme Southwest, California and other sections of the Pacific slope, and went all through that great belt of country beginning with the northern part of North Dakota and extending into Arizona, and they find after investigation that although there is a great necessity for making an appropriation to experiment with the various plans of irrigation, they can not muster a majority of votes, simply because the Senators say that their constituents would not endorse an appropriation. There is no question about the constitutionality of the proposition. The country has a right to improve its own lands. It can bore artesian wells and make basins to retain snow-water and rain for the purpose of flooding the arid regions in the Summer and making them arable and subsequently throw these lands open to settlement under the homestead laws. There are men in both branches of Congress who are proud of their long record in voting against the improvement of rivers and harbors, simply because there are no navigable rivers or harbors in their districts. There are men who vote against public buildings in cities because there is no demand for public buildings in their districts. Several old men in either House are proud that they oppose the extension of the merchant marine service and the building of a navy, simply because there is no coast on which their constituents can look.

The great growth of the country and the broadening of the mental vision of the American people will drive these old fogies out of Congress within a short time. The American Government and the people behind it are too progressive to keep a man in public life who bounds his ideas of legislation by the limits of his Congressional or Senatorial district.

THE OFFICIAL STARTING POINT.

A Plain Stick Formerly Marked That of the United States.

Special to the Journal.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The recent presentation to the President of the prototypes of the standard measures recalls the fact that there is in the city a point from which all the official distances were designed to be measured. When President Washington and Architect L'Enfant laid out the city of Washington they selected a point from which all the distances were to be measured. It was to be, in other words, the official starting point of the United States. The point was marked by a simple stick and there are still some old citizens who can remember it. It was erected on what is now known as Lincoln Park, a reservation on Capitol Hill, about a mile from the capitol. The city of Washington, it will be remembered, was intended to be principally upon Capitol Hill, and the great Liberty monument the dome of the capitol faces in that direction. Unfortunately for Mr. Washington and L'Enfant, it spread away from Capitol Hill, so that the capitol building and the big statue of Liberty are now practically turning their backs on the city. With the growth of the city away from the capitol the official starting point was of course neglected and it was almost forgotten until only a few years ago the idea was first promulgated to erect a statue to Abraham Lincoln, and this point was selected as being the best suited. The reservation in which it was, was named Lincoln Park, and on the starting point a magnificent bronze statue of Abraham Lincoln was erected, so that Mr. Lincoln's statue now marks the official starting point of the country. It is needless to say, however, that the point is not recognized at all in official distances and has lost all of its significance.

There is another official point which, so to speak, has lost its bearings. The astronomers of the United States calculate latitude and longitude from the meridian of Washington. The rest of the world calculates it from the meridian of Greenwich. After an enormous amount of observations and astronomic calculations the American astronomers settled on a point as a meridian point and marked it, and the hill on which it was fixed is known still as Meridian Hill. About fifteen years ago the astronomers, to verify their original meridian point, made a still more elaborate series of calculations and computations, with the result that the first series was all wrong and that the official meridian point was not the original point at all. According to the second series the official meridian point of the United States, as now located, is in the second story of a building at the corner of Sixth and G streets. The point, which, while not "officially" recognized, is conceded by everybody to be the coldest place in Washington, and is the corner of Twelfth and the Avenue. It is known in non-official circles as the north pole.

OFFICIAL CALL.

National Convention of the Republican League of the United States.

To the Republican State Leagues of the United States and the Delegates of the National Convention—Gentlemen: By authority delegated to the Executive Committee by the National League Convention, assembled in Baltimore, Md., on the first day of March, 1889, and in obedience to instructions and authority given to me by the Executive Committee, I hereby direct that the third annual convention of the Republican League of the United States shall convene at the city of Nashville, Tenn., at noon, on March 4, 1890, and continue in session thereafter during such hours as said convention shall determine.

The business which will come before the convention will include the reports from the officers of the league, the election of officers and members of the Executive Committee for the ensuing year, the designation of the place of meeting for the subsequent national league convention, and such other questions as the convention may deem proper.

Under the revised constitution of the National League the convention will be composed of about 1,000 delegates. Article VI reads as follows: "The National Convention shall be composed of two delegates-at-large from each State or organization in the league and of two delegates from each Congressional district in which there shall be one or more permanent Republican clubs, together with the President and Secretary of each State league, and all officers of the national organization, who shall be ex-officio delegates. Each delegate present shall be entitled to one vote."

To provide for the increased number of delegates in States where delegates were elected prior to the revision of the constitution the Executive Committee on August 14, 1889, adopted the following resolution: "Resolved, That in States where the delegates to the National Convention of 1890 shall have been selected heretofore, and the delegates from such State is increased by the amendment of the constitution this day adopted, the Executive Committee of such State league shall have power to select such additional delegates without reconvening the State convention."

The Republicans of Nashville have already appointed a committee on entertainment, with W. J. Watson as Chairman. All communications concerning local accommodations should be addressed to Mr. Watson.

At the close of the convention in Nashville the delegates will go to Chattanooga for the purpose of holding a Republican League mass meeting, which will be addressed by some of the most prominent speakers in the country. Other Southern cities may be included in this plan and further announcements will be made.

As this is to be the first Republican National Convention ever held in the Southern States the importance of having it composed of representative delegates will be apparent to all. JOHN M. THURSTON, President.

A. B. HYMERS, Secretary.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

Many Cities Expected to Fare Well With the Present Congress.

Special to the Journal.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—This session promises to be a good one for public buildings throughout the country. Every year there is a flood of bills appropriating sums of money ranging from $50,000 up to $2,000,000 for Postoffices and custom houses in different cities, and the Public Buildings committee is one of the hardest worked committees in the House. The average of bills reported favorably is about one to every twenty-five, and even then very few of those bills succeed in passing both Houses of Congress. There is a strong feeling to check this flood of bills by the passage of some uniform measure to apply to all cities. It will be remembered that several years ago a bill was introduced to the Senate providing that public buildings of uniform architecture should be erected in all cities where the Postoffice receipts for the three years past had reached $10,000. Subsequently the figure was reduced to $7,000, then to $4,000, and at this session there are already several bills before the committee reducing the figure to $3,000. Besides these bills which are before both the House and the Senate, bills of a similar nature, but based on population, have also been introduced, and it is apparent that before long some measure based probably on both the Postoffice receipts and population will be adopted. The idea is for the supervising architect to design some plain, commodious and substantial structure which can be erected in every town and which can be increased by additions of another story or wing to meet the demands of the towns as they grow in population, the matter to be regulated entirely by the Postoffice Department. This will take the matter out of the hands of local Congressmen and will save the Public Buildings committee much trouble and importuning from ambitious members, and will incidentally do away with much log-rolling in the House.

LIVELY CAMPAIGNS COMING.

Early Calls Issued for Republican State Central Committees.

Special to the Journal.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The unusually early period at which the various Republican State Central Committees throughout the States have been called to meet this Winter and Spring has attracted wide-spread attention among Republicans at the National Capital. It is accepted as an announcement that the Republicans are eager for the approaching day and intend to stand solidly upon their record and the issue which they presented to the country in the campaign of 1888.

It is ascertained that a majority of the State Central Committees will be reorganized within the next thirty or forty days. This early and united action and determination to stand by the issues of the party would indicate that the Republicans are not afraid of the battle into which they are marching. It shows also that they are not fearful of the result in their efforts to elect a majority of the Fifty-second Congress next November.

Democrats are cracking about the hole into which they think they have driven the Republicans on the tariff issue, and saying that the party now in power cannot revise the tariff in such a way as to meet the issues of the country. Senator Allison and Representative McKinley say the tariff will be revised in an acceptable manner as is possible; that the revenue will be reduced to the minimum, and the reductions will affect the articles in most common use. There is no likelihood that the tax on tobacco and fruit brandy will be abolished for the purpose of reducing the revenues. A great majority of the Republicans in Congress oppose this. They prefer a reduction of the duties on the imported goods which come most frequently into daily consumption.

There never was such a healthy condition exist in the Republican party as at the present, and not a prominent member of the party can be found at the National Capital who is eager for the elections this Fall.

The New Navy.

Special to the Journal.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The naval board appointed to formulate a plan for the building of a navy in a report to the Secretary of the Navy has recommended the construction of twenty-two vessels of different types and sizes, these to be built, according to the plan of the board, in fourteen years, and will cost, together with their maintenance during the fourteen years, $280,000,000. The plan of the board comprises thirty-five battle ships at an estimated cost, with armament, of $15,100,000, ten rams, at $1,800,000 each, nine armored cruisers, at $3,300,000 each; twenty protected cruisers, at an aggregate cost of $3,850,000; fifteen torpedo cruisers, at $500,000 each, and three auxiliary ships, at $2,000,000 each. The board recommends that eight of the 10,000-ton battle ships be begun at once.

California Fruit.

Special to the Journal.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—The annual meeting of the California Fruit Union was here to-day. President P. E. Platt, of Sacramento, presided. Secretary H. E. Fairbank submitted a long report of the Board of Directors giving a history of the Union's work during the year. The report states that 901 full carloads of fruit were sent to points of the Union in the East during the year, a gain of 141 carloads over the shipments of the previous years. In addition to these it is estimated that 630 carloads were sent East by members of the Union to points where there are no agencies. It is estimated that the whole number of carloads sent East by the members of the Union was about 1,600 out of a total of 2,432 carloads of fruit sent East by the State at large. The net sales of 951 of the 991 carloads sent to Eastern agencies amounted to $338,230; gross sales, $980,726.

United States Senate.

Special to the Journal.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—In the Senate Butler, speaking on the bill to provide for the emigration of colored persons from the Southern States to Africa, said: What was to become of the 200,000 Indians of this country, and of the 100,000 Chinamen, was a difficult problem, but the most profound inquiry applied to what was to be the fate of six or eight million negroes. As to the effect on the Southern States, if the South could be thus relieved of a part, at least, of its superabundance of cheap labor (as it would by such immigration), its white, intelligent, progressive citizens would thrive, so that the past prosperity of the South would pale into insignificance as compared to its future prospects.

Hoar and Blair denounced the measure. Hoar said the proposition was the most astonishing one ever heard in the legislative history of the Senate, or the legislative history of a free and civilized people. Blair said that if, instead of exporting 8,000,000 colored people, there were 18,000 colored people exported to Africa and kept there, the whole difficulty would be settled. The bill went over without action.

Teller presented the credentials of Sanderson and Power as Senators-elect from Montana. They were referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections. Senate adjourned until Monday.

Six Murderers Executed.

Special to the Journal.

FORT SMITH, Ark., Jan. 16.—The hanging of six condemned murderers took place to-day at 12 o'clock. The men executed were: Austin, the Choctaw, John Billy, Thomas Willis, Sam Goin, Jimmie Burrie and Jefferson Jones.

Only reporters, guards and physicians were allowed to witness the execution. After the nooses were adjusted all the prisoners confessed their crimes and acknowledged the justice of their punishment.

When the fatal drop came there was but a slight groan from one. All were dead in from three to six minutes.

George Maledon, who had hanged seventy-five persons before, performed the work apparently with a relief.

If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar medicine, possessing, by virtue of its peculiar combination, proportion, and preparation, curative power superior to any other article. A Boston lady who knew what she wanted, and whose example is worthy imitation, tells her experience below:

To Get

"In one store where I went to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla the clerk tried to induce me to buy their own instead of Hood's; he told me their's would last longer; that I might take it on ten days' trial; that if I did not like it I need not pay anything, etc. But he could not prevail on me to change. I told him I knew what Hood's Sarsaparilla was. I had taken it, was satisfied with it, and did not want any other."

Hood's

When I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was feeling real miserable, suffering a great deal with dyspepsia, and so weak that at times I could hardly stand. I looked, and had for some time, like a person in consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me so much good that I would not myself, and my friends frequently speak of it." MRS. ELLA A. ## BREVITIES.

C. T. Bender is confined to his home with "ja grippe."

Hon. L. A. Blakeslee, of Humboldt was in town yesterday.

Bob Parry is taking care of 2,000 head of cattle, and is very busy.

The man who can guess the arrival and non-arrival of the trains is a smart fellow.

For the first time in the history of the railroad trains have been snow-bound at Winnemucca.

The storm seems to be over, but the JOURNAL takes no chances on what may happen to-day.

A special train was made up at Virginia yesterday morning at 11 o'clock and arrived at Reno at 3 P. M.

Major A. A. Garner, Special Agent of General Land Office, received word here yesterday that his wife was dangerously ill, and he immediately departed for his home at Dalton, Ga.

G. W. Mereson is now running the Tremont House, and all who patronize him will be well cared for. His rates are as low as any, and his accommodations far superior to many. Give George a call and be certain of a good bed and board.

RENO CORRESPONDENCE.

Another Resident's Views on the State Board of Trade.

RENO, Jan. 13.

In the Chronicle of last Saturday appears a correspondence from this city. It contains some very sarcastic allusions to the recently organized State Board of Trade. The sarcasm, however, is so finely drawn that only those acquainted with local prejudices can see in it only sarcasm. To those outside the pale of the local jealousies which hamper this community the little pleasantries indulged in by your correspondent may reasonably be taken for the strict truth. It was to heal these very jealousies (it is the general opinion here) that the official register of Reno precinct was exhausted in making up the charter membership of the Board of Trade. Mr. Newlands rests under the suspicion of wishing to further his political ambitions through his position in the Board. Evidently a good way to clear himself of this suspicion was adopted when he gave every voter in his place of residence an equal honor and an equal opportunity to put a shoulder to the wheel of progress, which admittedly he has been largely instrumental in putting in motion. Even this heroic method of treating the grumblers seems to have failed; else why the soreheaded wall from Reno last Saturday?

Perhaps your correspondent was not on the Reno register. If so he will probably be taken into the ranks of the Reno army which is pulling heart and soul for the Board of Trade, if he will state his case to the proper authorities, without it costing him a cent. The writer is no apologist for Francis G. Newlands, and takes no stock in his denials of political ambition. On the contrary it is his opinion that he is here solely and simply because he wants office and because he couldn't get it in California. Mr. Newlands is mistaken if he thinks he can use the Board of Trade or any other body of Nevada men as a political tool because he is a member or officer thereof. If he does think so, and puts up his money with that belief, the people of Nevada are intelligent enough to first accept the benefits which his money will provide and then judiciously squelch his egotism at the polls.

The State Board of Trade has not as yet made a move. Until it makes a move it can make no mistake. Evidently it was not organized to injure the State or any portion thereof. Consequently your correspondent's allusions to it were either made in malice or with a mistaken idea of humor. At any rate, they are misleading to people at a distance. NODROO.

Nearly Everybody Sick.

The Silver State asserts "there never was a time in the history of Winnemucca when so many persons were sick as at present. The influenza, 'grippe,' or whatever it may be, is taking hold of everybody, and it is difficult to get nurses for the worst cases. Fortunately the disease scarcely ever takes a serious turn, and there are no fatal cases, but it prostrates its victims for the time so that they are unable to help themselves or anybody else."

Paradise Valley.

The Silver State tells this: Fred Sperry, who arrived from Paradise valley since the big storm last Sunday says the snow was at least two feet deep all over the valley. The oldest settlers say it was the heaviest snow storm they ever saw in the valley. The outlook for stock running at large is as blue as it could be, while the prospect for plenty of water, which means abundant grain and hay crops next summer is all that could be desired.

Sheep Snowed In.

The Silver State says: The deep snow which fell last Sunday has almost buried several flocks of sheep. There are flocks in Eden valley and in Paradise valley where the snow is about two feet deep. Railroad men say there are several thousand in the valley near Mill City in the deep snow and a small flock belonging to Thomas Nelson, was snowed in at Rose Creek, and hay was shipped by rail from this place yesterday to feed them.

The Trains.

The latest news from the C. P. trains last night was that the fast mail from the East would be in at 3 A. M. this morning, and that the trains from the West were still snow-bound at Bitter Canyon.

"THE PRINCESS."

The Benefit the People Should Give the Public Library To-Night.

FROM.

"The Princess," a mixture of modern ideas and manners, with medieval chivalry and romance, is entitled "A Medley," being in form neither an epic nor a drama, though largely containing the elements of both. That its rich materials admit of more strictly dramatic treatment is suggested by the poet himself, in terms which might justify the attempt, if made in an appreciative spirit, with no purpose of disturbing the original, legitimate impression of the poem.

In this recomposition of the work the aim has been to retain the language and style of Tennyson as far as possible, and only to take such liberties with the plot as have been experimentally found requisite.

"It is believed that a dramatic rendering of 'The Princess,' though it most necessarily sacrifice some of its literary beauties, can only enhance its charm as a wonderful creation of fancy, and may deepen its philosophical interest, as it bears upon many questions of modern social life and culture.

ARGUMENT.

Act I. Scene 1.—A presence room in the King's Palace.

Scene II.—Before Gama's palace.

Scene III.—A college hall in the palace of the Princess.

The Princess refuses to wed the Prince, having to give her life to the intellectual uplifting of her sex. He and his two friends, Cyril and Florian, determine to don girls' attire and enroll in the university, she has established, although no man may enter its precincts on pain of death. Empowered with letters from the Princess' father they pass approved the border sentries and are admitted to the palace. Lady Psyche, Florian's sister, recognizes him in disguise, and Melissa overhears their conversation, but both are persuaded to keep silence until they slip away.

Interlude—"Sweet and Low."

Act II. Scene 1.—On a terrace before the palace.

They are warned that Lady Blanche has discovered them, and Cyril undertakes to silence her. The Prince urges his suit upon the Princess.

Interlude—"The Splendor Falls on Castle Walls."

Act III. Scene 1.—A pavilion in the park.

Scene II.—On a terrace before the palace.

Scene III.—A council chamber in the palace.

Cyril discovers himself to the Princess and her maidens. In the fight which ensues the Princess falls into a stream and the Prince saves her life. Cyril and Psyche escape to the King's camp. The Prince and Florian are taken captive by the proctors and are taken before the Princess. Letters inform her that the university is surrounded by the King's army, and that her father is held hostage for the Prince's life. She quiets a panic among the students, dismisses Lady Blanche, who cannot leave the palace, and causes the Prince and Florian to be thrust out the gates.

Interlude—"Thy Voice is heard Through Rolling Drums."

Act IV. Scene 1.—A camp of the King's army.

Scene II.—Open field between the camps.

Psyche is full of remorse and shame at the part she has played and grief at the loss of her child. Ida sending word that she will abide the issue, war is determined upon, her brothers championing her cause.

Interlude—"Home They Brought Her Warrior Dead."

Act V. Scene 1.—A hall of state in the Princess' palace.

Scene II.—A hall of state in the Princess' palace, after long weeks of watching.

The Prince is defeated and maimed in battle. Psyche regains her child and the favor of the Princess. The university is opened to the wounded of friend and foe. Lady Blanche is finally dismissed. The Princess saves the life of the Prince by weary weeks of watching, and receives as a helper in her plans one who knows

"The woman's cause is man's. They rise or sink together, dwarfed or God-like, bond or free."

Finale—"Ask Me No More."

"A Gothic ruin and a Grecian house, A fatal knight in armor, unassuming, A fatal knight in armor, unassuming, A fatal knight in armor, unassuming."

"This were a melody!"

And let the ladies sing us, if they will, From time to time, some ballad, or a song, To give us breathing space.

What style shall suit? Then rose a little feud betwixt the two— Betwixt the meters and the realists— And I saw both them both, to please them both. I moved as in a strange diagonal, And may remember pleased myself no more."

NEVADA PUBLIC LANDS.

The Winnemucca Silver State expresses itself as follows:

A meeting of the Directors of the State Board of Trade was held at Reno last Saturday. The papers report as being present, President Newlands, Manager Fulton, Treasurer Coffin, C. T. Bender, M. D. Foley, W. O. H. Martin, E. C. McOlellan, George Rensell, S. D. King, L. D. Folsom and Secretary Bregg. The question of the United States holding all Government lands within its borders to the end that Nevada may enter upon storage and irrigation enterprises for their reclamation.

The committee appointed to carry out the intent of the resolution consists of M. D. Foley, S. D. King, Treasurer Coffin, E. C. McOlellan, R. L. Fulton and Thomas Fuchs. That committee will of course perform the duty for which it was created and in the name and in behalf of the Board of Trade of Nevada present it to Congress.

The disposition of the public lands in Nevada is of the greatest importance to the people of the State. As heretofore stated in these columns, if the public lands are all granted to the State without any restriction as to the quantity which it may dispose of to an individual or association, it is the opinion of men who have given the subject thought that it will make no difference to the present generation whether the proceeds of the sale of such lands be applied to storing water for irrigating purposes or not, as the lands will become the property of a few persons, and the State for years will be nothing more nor less than an extensive cattle and sheep range. To starve a poor man, with a small herd of cattle or a flock of sheep, can obtain a foothold in Nevada, because he can graze his stock on the public domain. If that domain is ceded to the State, and as was the case before, a purchasable Board of Regents is permitted to fix the price at which it will be sold, a few men will get control of it and Nevada will be a good State for the poor man to keep away from.

The Board of Trade, or correctly speaking, the dozen persons who acted for the Board last Saturday, should not act hastily in so important a matter as this land question. The General Government, which has profited to the extent of many millions from the cessions of Nevada silver, is now in a fair way to make surveys for irrigating purposes in Nevada, and until those surveys are completed the Board of Trade should not ask Congress to donate all the public lands in Nevada to the State. Representative Herman, of Oregon, an active and intelligent man, who has given much attention to the public land question, is opposed to donating lands to the State for irrigating purposes for the reason that rich individuals or corporations are certain to get control of the lands.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. feb. 21-sw-ly.

Taxes Paid.

The Elko Independent says: The Central Pacific Railroad Company has paid into the county treasury of Elko county the sum of $977.67, being the amount of taxes assessed against said company on account of surveyed and unpatented lands. This payment is made conditional, pending a suit against the railroad company in Washoe county for the collection of taxes on the same kind of property. If the said suit should terminate in favor of the county, the payment to this county of the said sum is absolute, and the amount can then be apportioned to the various funds.

WHAT ON EARTH

Is the reason people will not, can not or do not see any difference in cheap nostrums put up by cheap John houses or irresponsible parties at enormous profits, rather than take a medicine of world wide reputation and one that is giving universal satisfaction at—1¢ a price? No medicine in the world is giving such unparalleled satisfaction for purifying the blood as BLOOD PURIFIER AND BLOOD MAKER, and every bottle that does not do it will cost you nothing.
